

There is no question that all creative businesses must be well run.

What they must not do is mistake business as being their business. Their business is creativity.

