

Australian soap operas for teenagers are partly responsible for the delusion that this is a nation of the English in exile.

In the soaps, even the obviously ethnic have English names and Anglo-Australian accents.

