

All good businesspeople know that what separates them from the competition is innovation – the constant pursuit of the new.

Fear of the new is an all too common human trait. Give it up – it condemns you to failure and mediocrity.

